

WHAT IS IT?

Youth Arts Engagement Grants support arts learning projects for young people that occur outside of traditional school hours.

WHAT DOES IT FUND?

Youth Arts Engagement Grants support projects that...

- focus on young people, ages 24 and under,
- occur outside of traditional school hours (before/after school and/or during school holidays/breaks), and
- center arts learning practices.

Such projects should also...

- provide opportunities for creative expression in safe and nurturing environments,
- honor youth voices, narratives, and perspectives, and
- utilize the assets of the community being served.

Projects may take place in...

- arts venues,
- community centers,
- school sites, and
- other youth-oriented settings.

Arts learning projects feature sequential, hands-on learning through the arts to develop artistic skills, processes and creativity. Artistic and/or cultural discipline(s) may include, but are not limited to dance, literary arts, media arts, music, theatre, traditional and folk arts, and visual arts. Arts learning projects include specific objectives, outcomes and methods of evaluation that are well defined and relevant for the learners involved.

APPLICATION LIMITS

An organization may submit only one application per fiscal year.

Across grant programs, the Arts Commission limits the number of applications that may be submitted by a given organization or unit of government to one (1) application per funding period (July 1 – June 30 of the following year). While an organization or unit of government may be eligible for more than one grant program, they may only apply for one of them in a given funding period. (See FAQ #8 on page 10 for more information.)

ADDITIONAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR TEACHING ARTIST

Individual teaching artists or arts organizations may be listed as partners on a maximum of three (3) funded arts learning grant applications (both Lifelong Arts Engagement and Youth Arts Engagement) in a given fiscal year. If the number of applications on which a given individual teaching artist or arts organization is listed as a partner exceeds the total number that may be funded for that fiscal year, they will be asked to advise the Arts Commission on which application(s) will be withdrawn from consideration. The Arts Commission requests that prospective applicants consider this restriction before applying.

Teaching artists are encouraged to seek out partnerships with eligible organizations, schools, or units of government. The entity you partner with will then serve as the direct applicant. When building a partnership with an organization, school, or unit of government, make sure they are not applying to the Youth Arts Engagement Grant for a different project or to another grant program through the Arizona Commission on the Arts.

AWARD AMOUNT

Organizations can request $2,500 to $5,000.

There is no cash match required for this grant opportunity.

ELIGIBLE EXPENSES

Grant funds may be used for any of the following (this list is not comprehensive):

- artist, consultant, and other fees
- administrative costs related to the project
- materials or supplies
- in-state travel costs
- technology
- documentation
- evaluation

Grant funds cannot be used for any projects, or days of a project, that take place before the start date of the fiscal year (July 1, 2024). If your full project timeline starts before or ends after the funding period, you are still eligible to apply and should articulate the full timeline in your application, but should only request and use grant funds for project activities taking place within the funding period.

YAE YOUTH ARTS ENGAGEMENT GRANT

GRANT TIMELINE

Funds are delivered approximately 6-8 weeks after all necessary paperwork has been submitted by the grantee. This includes the award agreement, state W-9 and payment form.

BEFORE YOU APPLY

Applicants are encouraged to do the following prior to beginning their application:

Request Accommodations

If you require accommodation in completing the application, or otherwise participating in the grant application process, please contact the Director of Arts Learning, Elisa Radcliffe, by phone at (602) 771-6528 or by email at eradcliffe@azarts.gov.

Prepare Narrative Responses

You can type your proposal narrative or you can upload audio recordings of your responses. For each narrative question you will find a maximum word count (not character) and a maximum recording length. If you share your proposal narrative via audio recordings, keep it simple and to the point. Don't worry about impressing the panelists with your recording technique, just make sure we can hear and understand you. All audio files must be uploaded as MP3 files (.mp3).

Some applicants find it helpful to develop their responses using word processing software, outside the application platform. This allows them to draft responses with team members and monitor their word counts for each question. A Word document version of the narrative questions can be downloaded at <https://azarts.gov/grant/youth-arts-engagement/>.

Create or Update the SurveyMonkey Apply Account for Your Organization

You will submit your application through an online submission platform called SurveyMonkey Apply. Prior to applying, all new applicants will need to register their organization at <https://azarts.smapply.io/>.

If your organization already has an account, we encourage you to confirm that all information is up to date and add/remove any team members as needed.

For instructions on how to create or update your account, visit our applicant resources page: <https://azarts.gov/grants/applicant-resources/>.

WHERE IS MY ORGANIZATION ACCOUNT?

When you log-in to SurveyMonkey Apply, you do not go directly to your organization account. In the past, this has caused some confusion for returning applicants.

Look for your name in the upper left corner of the screen. When you click on your name, you will see the organization(s) you are associated with. Click on the name of the organization to enter your organization's account.

HOW TO APPLY

When you're ready, go to <https://azarts.gov/grant/youth-arts-engagement/> and click on "Apply Now." You do not have to complete the application in one session; at any point you can save a draft of your application and complete or submit it later.

REVIEW PROCESS

All applications are subject to a public review process. First, Arts Commission staff review each application for completeness and eligibility. Applications that are incomplete or submitted after the due date are considered ineligible for panel review and funding.

Eligible applications are then evaluated by independent review panels made up of arts learning specialists from communities throughout the state. They evaluate each application on its own merits and solely on the basis of the published evaluation criteria.

Panelists first review applications individually. They then meet as a body to discuss the applications and finalize assessment as a group. This meeting is open to the public and while applicants are not permitted to participate in the discussion, they are encouraged to attend or listen-in online. Applicants being reviewed will be notified when panel dates are set. At the conclusion of their deliberations, the panel submits their funding recommendations to the Arts Commission's Governor-appointed board of commissioners for approval.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. What types of organizations can apply for Youth Arts Engagement Grants?

Eligible organizations include arts and cultural organizations, community-based service organizations, libraries, neighborhood centers, parks and recreation departments, social service organizations, university/college departments, PreK-12 schools or school districts who serve youth 24 and under outside of traditional school hours.

An organization without tax-exempt status, may apply through a nonprofit fiscal sponsor.

2. What is asset-based vs. deficit-based language? How can we address various inequalities in our narrative?

Asset-based language focuses on the unique attributes the participants bring to the project (passionate, capable, thriving) as opposed to deficit-based language that define people and places by perceived insufficiencies (like at risk, lacking, marginalized, underserved). Let's not define people and places by their deficits. This reinforces negative stereotypes and is not conducive to the type of arts learning this grant program seeks to support. Deficit-based language also contributes to a dynamic where learners are not seen as partners, but as objects of charity. If you're talking about a problem, use language that reflects that systematic disparities and community wide problems in fact have systemic causes, that these are not self-caused problems, and explicitly describe those systems whenever possible.

3. Are field trips or strictly performance-based projects eligible for this grant?

No. While a field trip or culminating performance may be a part of the project, it should not be the primary focus. This grant program supports arts programs that seek to activate youth voices, narratives, and perspectives. It is important to articulate how a community of learners has a voice and agency in the development and implementation of the project. This grant values active participation over exposure or passive engagement.

4. Can a school district and a school within that district both apply?

An individual school and a school district may each submit separate applications, but they must be for completely distinct and separate projects and be for projects that occur outside of traditional school hours.

5. When should I contact my district about applying for this grant?

We recommend contacting the Grant Department or Fiscal Office at your district 2-3 months prior to the grant deadline.

6. Can my organization apply for both a Youth Arts Engagement Grant and a Lifelong Arts Engagement Grant?

No. Though an organization may be eligible for more than one arts learning grant program, the Arts Commission limits the number of applications which may be submitted by an applicant to one arts learning grant program within the same funding period. An applicant who applies to the Lifelong Arts Engagement Grant program in Fiscal Year 2024 may not apply for a Youth Arts Engagement Grant that same year.

7. I'm an arts organization; am I eligible to apply directly and serve as a partner in another project?

Arts organizations are eligible to apply directly to the Youth Arts Engagement Grant program. As outlined above, as a direct applicant an arts organization may only receive one Youth Arts Engagement grant per fiscal year. Those arts organization may still serve as a partner in a different project, but all applications, including the one submitted directly, count toward the total partner limit of 3 arts learning applications (both Lifelong Arts Engagement and Youth Arts Engagement) per fiscal year. This is to address the competitive nature of this grant program.

8. My organization is eligible for other Arts Commission grants; can I apply to those?

No. Across grant programs, the Arts Commission limits the number of applications that may be submitted by a given organization or unit of government to one (1) application per funding period (July 1 – June 30 of the following year). While an organization or unit of government may be eligible for more than one grant program, they may only apply for one of them in a given funding period. As an example, an applicant who applies to the Creative Capacity Grant program or the Festivals Grant program in Fiscal Year 2025 may not apply for a Youth Arts Engagement Grant that same year.
